Hi Eliminators.ca,

I volunteer at a children's center with a summer science program and I came across eliminators.ca/links.html while teaching the students about conservation as a part of a project they are working on. I wanted to send you a quick email saying thank you!

One of the students, David, did some research on his own and found this page <http://www.carcovers.com/resources/the-importance-of-eco-friendly-cars/index.html> about eco-friendly cars for his project and It has a lot of good information regarding making a regular car more eco-friendly, which in turn, conserves the environment by reducing pollution.

MESSAGE: Would you please add a link to his resource, even if just for a short time? I would like to show him and the others that by sticking their necks out, they can accomplish things and can take small steps to make change. I even told David I would reward him if you were willing to add the link to your site and he would be so excited to see you found the resource he discovered useful! Please let me know if you be willing.

Thanks!
Kayla
